NEW PONTIACS SHOW MANY IMPROVEMENTS

The 1953 Pontiacs—a completely new line of automobiles—were introduced to Canadian motorists recently by General Motors Products of Canada Ltd. Twenty-nine body styles in five series with important improvements incorporated in body design, styling and color, riding qualities, ease of steering and greatly increased all-around vision are offered throughout the 1953 Pontiac range.

FAT BOYS' DIET

Finds 2 Months Of Reducing Real Success

By ELMER WHEELER

In just over two months, I lost 44 pounds, dropping my weight from 240 to 186 pounds on a diet of 1,500 calories per day.

With some sound medical advice and some good literature, I found there was nothing to this reducing business. Maybe you've done the same by following this Fat Boy Diet every week.

First thing I learned, it wasn't how much you eat—but what you eat. I made a list of the calorie content of different foods, and set them up in my Fat Boy Calorie Chart which I've sent to you readers free on request.

I found out that you could still eat a lot, and yet if you ate food low in calorie content, you couldn't help but lose weight.

So I set myself on my 1,500 calorie a day diet. Mind you, some of you housewives and female office workers should eat less than that—as low as 1,200 calories a day.

Anyway, I set myself on a diet using a three-day, 4,500 calorie schedule. By doing that, if I ate too much one day at a party or something, I could eat less the next day and still stay within my calorie limit.

I learned that a lot of exercise really won't help much in reducing. Trouble is, you go out and get a lot of exercise in hopes of losing weight, and you end up so darned hungry you eat more than you lost by exercising.

One thing I learned was that if you can lose weight, and keep your weight for three months, you're not likely to turn into a Fat Boy again.

I LIKE my "new look." My shirts fit loosely again, in current fashion, like the Arrow boys look in the ads, and that long-legged fellow in the Hart Schaffner ads smiles at me again.

He knows I'm a prospect once more for clothes. Trim boys buy three suits to every one Fatty buys. The trimmer you are, it seems, the more you like to strut around in fine feathers!

It's good to be a Thin Guy, all right. It's good to be down to 186 pounds.

No longer do theatre managers worry when I stand up for fear the seat will come up with me.

NOR DO my friends worry when I sit down at the tables for fear they haven't enough food to fill up Old Hollow Leg—or that

This year, Power Steering is offered as an option at extra cost on Pontiac models equipped with automatic transmissions. Available, too, is a choice of eight or six-cylinder engines, the latter with substantially increased power. Again this year, two automatic transmissions are offered—an Improved Powerglide or dual-range Hydra-Matic Drive, depending on the series—as optional extras.

Three of the series—Pathfinder, Pathfinder Deluxe and Laurentian—are mounted on 115-inch wheelbase and offer collectively three four-door sedans, three two-door sedans, two club coupes, two sport coupes, and a business coupe. As an aid to easier parking, there is approximately two inches less over-all length than formerly in these three series through less front and rear overhang—a result of the new position of bumper guards and bumpers.

The Chieftain Special and Chieftain Deluxe series, have been lengthened to 122-inch wheelbase, and offer a choice of six- or eight-cylinder engines with all models. Available in the Chieftain Special are a four-door sedan, 6 passenger station wagon and an 8 passenger station wagon. Chieftain Deluxe includes a two-door sedan, a four-door sedan, Deluxe Catalina, Custom Catalina, convertible and a station wagon.

Features of the new bodies, which are immediately distinguishable from previous models, include a one-piece curved windshield, roomier interiors, high rear deck contour, greater trunk space, new rear fender design, completely revised styling of sheet metal and trim, and new luxurious interior designs.

Pathfinder Deluxe Series (except club coupe); Laurentian Series, and both Chieftain Series carry large, one-piece wrap-around rear windows on all closed models, while the width of the rear window in the Pathfinder series and the Pathfinder Deluxe club coupe has been increased by approximately four inches. The Autronic Eye, GM's famed automatic headlight dimmer, is offered on all 1953 Pontiac Series as an option at extra cost.

A new front end suspension system designed for easier steering

I'll cave in their antique chairs.

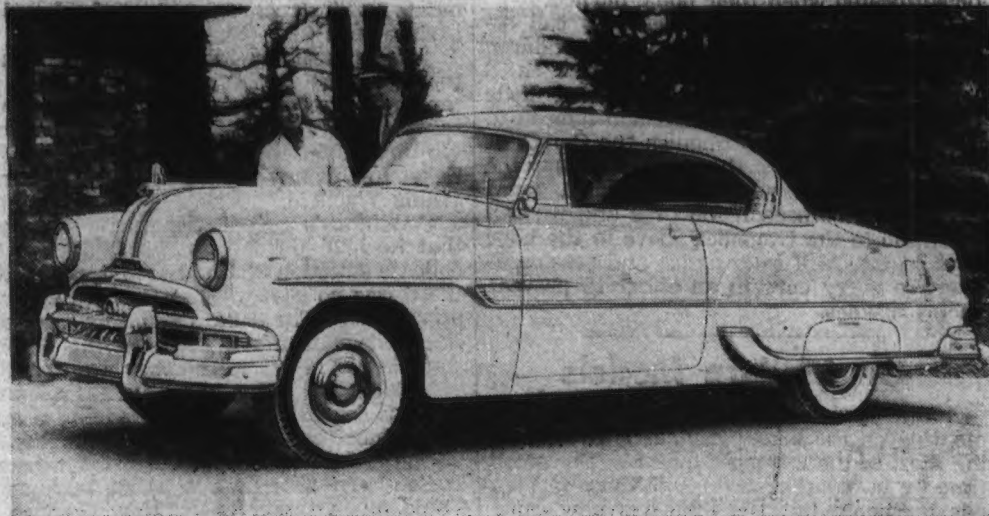

I like the glamor of my "new look."

I can wear double-breasted suits again. With plenty of pads and checks. No more plain dark colors to hide my shape.

I can wear belts again. No need for suspenders any more. I'm back in the bow tie business—they don't get lost under my double chin any more—and I can go swimming once more and not feel ashamed and hide behind a towel.

I'm happy with my new look.

(The End.)

THE 1953 PONTIAC brings Canadians a completely new line of automobiles with 29 body styles in five series. New styling inside and out, new colors, improved riding qualities, greater vision and roomier interiors are among the highlights. Available are eight and six cylinder engines, the latter with substantially increased power. Options such as Powerglide or Hydra-Matic automatic transmissions, depending on the series; Power steering; and the Autronic Eye, an automatic headlight dimmer, are available at extra cost. Shown here is the Custom Catalina.

Kathryn News Briefs

Many of the families of the Kathryn district report severe colds and stomach 'flu during the Christmas season. However, the beautiful weather enabled everyone to travel easily and really enjoy the festive season.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Hood visited with their families at Barons for Christmas and New Year's.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Anderson entertained their families at Christmas and spent New Year's with the J. W. Anderson family in Calgary.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Anderson spent the Christmas week visiting at the McLean home in Edmonton, and with Mr. and Mrs. Larry Williams in Sedgewick.

Miss Alma Jean Goodrich spent the Christmas holidays with her mother. Mrs. Goodrich also enjoyed having some of the other members of her families with her at Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Knight have returned to teaching duties after visiting their families in Calgary during the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Anderson entertained her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, and Pat, for a few days at Christmas and, in turn, spent New Year's in Calgary with the Johnstons.

The McKays enjoyed a large family gathering at the Verne McKay home in Calgary for Christmas. Guests included some relatives from Montana.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Hutchings of Calgary and Mr. and Mrs. A. Moorey were Christmas Eve guests at the W. A. Longson home. The Longsons spent New Year's with Mrs. Longson's parents in Calgary.

A family reunion of 23 was held at the A. W. Longson home on Christmas Day. Mrs. T. Hutchings and Pat were also present.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Storey spent Christmas with friends in Calgary.

Mr. C. Sveinson's mother and brother spent Christmas with them, and Mrs. Sveinson's sister and her husband and wee babe, born Christmas Day, enjoyed the New Year with them.

Mr. Neil Longson has returned to Edmonton to complete his University studies after spending the holidays with his parents.

Mr., Mrs. V. Schmaltz Honored On 25th Wedding

BEISEKER — Relatives and friends gathered in the Memorial Hall on Sunday evening, Jan. 4, to honor Mr. and Mrs. Val Schmaltz, the occasion being their 25th wedding anniversary. A pleasant evening was spent playing court whist. Following cards a very dainty lunch was served. After lunch Mrs. L. Brosteaux rendered the solo "A Wedding Prayer."

Mr. Tony Velker, acting as master of ceremonies, called upon Mrs. A. Wald to make a speech on behalf of the Catholic Women's League. Mrs. Wald in her speech related many little incidents happening to Mr. Schmaltz in his younger days before his marriage to Mrs. Schmaltz.

Rev. Father Tennant, in congratulating them on their 25 years of married life, said, although one of the family was missing on this occasion—meaning Vera—she was with them spiritually and will have her blessing.

Later, on behalf of those present, Mr. Velker presented the couple with a trillite lamp. Mr. Schmaltz, on behalf of his wife, thanked everyone for the part they had taken in making the celebration so enjoyable.

Out-of-town guests arriving for the occasion, were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heck and family; Mr. and Mrs. Wendland and family, all of Montana; Mrs. Wendland and Mr. Heck are sister and brother to Mrs. Schmaltz; Mr. and Mrs. Feldman, and family of Edmonton, also sister and brother-in-law; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Schmaltz of Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Velker and family of Rockyford.

To close the evening several beautiful colored slides were shown of Vera at the Pines in Chatham, Ont.

Curling Club Sets Bonspiel Dates

BEISEKER — A general meeting of the Beiseker Men's Curling Club was held recently. Feb. 18 to 21 are the dates set for the annual Beiseker bonspiel. It was decided to open the season with a mixed green-bonspiel. The ice is in the making and should be ready soon with a little colder weather.

Carpenters are busy at the Alberta Pacific Grain Co. these days, building an annex to a 30,000 bushel capacity.

Mr. and Mrs. Pius Schmaltz were week-end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Schmaltz.

Miss Florence Hagel spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hagel.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrow of Drumheller visited the home of her mother's Mrs. E. Hagel.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Olsen spent a few days visiting relatives and friends in High River and Brant.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug Brown and children and Mr. and Mrs. Wilf Hogg were holiday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Schmaltz.

Beiseker Enjoys Operetta

BEISEKER — The operetta "The Gypsy Rover," was presented in the Beiseker Memorial Hall on Wednesday, Jan. 7, by the Acme Operetta Society, under able direction of Mrs. Mary Ellis and was sponsored by the Beiseker Home and School Association. Due to the severe cold weather which appeared quite suddenly, the attendance was not as large as it might have been.

A fine performance was put on by the leading lady and gentleman, who were Miss Margery Parks as Constance and Allan Stern as Rob, the Gypsy rover boy, and the assisting cast of about 35.

The story of the Rover was thoroughly enjoyed by all those who were able to be present.

The Season For Fires

Recently, two children, about two years old, burned to death in a home in which they were the only occupants. The adult, who was caring for the children, stepped out of the house for only a short period, and upon returning, found the home in flames.

A short time before, in another section of the country, all but one child of some eight or nine in the same family were burned or suffocated when their home burned.

We point to these incidents to call attention to the fact that young children are almost helpless when trapped in a house-fire. Unattended, they stand little chance of survival unless firemen happen to be lucky enough to extinguish the flames at an early stage and if the children occupy the part of the house which did not burn.

This is the season for fires and we call attention to the tragedies above in the hope that parents will take notice and resolve to exercise every care in an effort to prevent such tragedies.

On Modern Models

We cannot refrain longer from commenting on the bean-poles currently modeling most of the women's apparel. For some time we have suffered through these fashion ads in silence but the time has now come when we must speak out or have a guilty conscience.

In the first place, the anemic specimens which are featured as models are repulsive-looking to most Canadians. While realizing that the effort involved is an effort to sell clothes we, nevertheless, are not convinced that the rails now being used as models are the best medium to achieve that end.

The average Canadian male prefers a health-looking Canadian girl and is not attracted to broomsticks currently being employed as models. We are told that males do not buy a large portion of ladies' wearing apparel. On that score, we believe, nevertheless, that the females dress largely for their opposite sex, at least until they reach middle-age and, even then some, if not most, dress to please men.

Thus, we see no objection to the use of normal-looking Canadian girls as models. They will present a truer picture of the way the product they advertise will appear on the average Canadian girl than they do as underweights. And then, too, the use of normal-looking, healthy girls as fashion models will not encourage daughter to starve herself half of each day in order to imitate the bony appearance of current models.

We think it time the women's apparel trade got back down to earth. Considering the fact that the average woman is only slightly over five feet tall and more often plump than skinny, we think the tendency to stress thinness is overdone out of all proportions.

Losing a Typhoon

A Chinese Nationalist weather man was recently accused by an agency of the Nationalist Government of "losing a typhoon." The weatherman was charged with failing to properly chart the course of the disastrous typhoon.

Instead of going where the weatherman predicted, the typhoon struck Formosa on November 14th, without warning. The storm left over 150 dead and missing and injured about 400. It also destroyed almost 10,000 houses and damaged an even larger number.

In the Chinese view, the weatherman, had he acted properly, could have accurately predicted the course of the typhoon. His failure is being considered grounds for punitive action.

We have sometimes wondered if this policy would not improve our own weather-prediction system and regret that the science of weather is not that simple.

Duchess Is Queen—

(of the Ball)

Although the British Royal family's attitude towards the Duchess of Windsor has relegated her to the deep freeze for Queen Elizabeth's coronation in June, the twice-divorced Duchess got a consolation prize last week on her own side of the ocean.

The American woman for whom the Duke gave up his throne presided over a top-drawer New York society function, the Musicians Emergency Fund Ball, January 5. This annual affair provides musical instruments and instructions on same for hospitalized veterans.

In announcing recently that a "constitutional bar" would prevent him from attending the coronation of his niece, the Duke solved a problem. A seat had been reserved for him in the royal box, but there was no ticket for his non-royal Duchess, the former Wallis Warfield.

Windsor's recent trip home suggested that he had sounded out his family on the delicate situation and had been apprised that there was no change—the Duchess was still unwelcome. The Duke's admirers were confident he wouldn't consent to this implied snubbing of his wife, and they were right.

Both the Duke and Duchess seem to have dedicated their lives to having a good time, since they were dis-owned by Royalty in England. Why the Duke retains his ranch in Southern Alberta is a puzzle because he would much rather be making whoopee on Broadway than riding herd in Canada. His last trip, the only one in several years, was made because he thought there was a chance of making a million or two in oil. If he does make any money in Alberta oil it's a cinch he won't want to spend the time making it away from the Waldorf-Astoria and the Great White Way.

My Creed

Dean Alfange in This Week

I do not choose to be a common man. It is my right to be uncommon — if I can. I seek opportunity — not security. I do not wish to be a kept citizen, humbled and dulled by having the state look after me. I want to take the calculated risk; to dream and to build, to fail and to succeed. I refuse to barter incentive for a dole. I prefer the challenges of life to the guaranteed existence: the thrill of fulfillment to the stale calm of utopia. I will not trade freedom for beneficence nor my dignity for a handout. It is my heritage to think and act for myself, enjoy the benefit of my creations, and to face the world boldly and say, this I have done.

Economists Predict Mild Setback

The F. W. Dodge Corporation recently polled 137 leading economists on expected business conditions in 1953 and found that a majority think there is a good possibility of a mild setback in the last part of 1953. However, the prevailing opinion is that general stability and good business conditions will prevail during most of the year and that the setback—if there is one—will be of minor importance.

Many of those polled thought the business outlook was fine and that the total output of goods for next year would exceed the output for 1952. Many expected prices to decline moderately as 1953 wears on.

The 137 economists polled were officials of either business or financial companies, university teachers, private consultants or government men. These economists advise all business men to develop initiative, push advertising, make necessary price adjustments and use modern promotional and sales efforts. In addition, they think some businesses should be run more cautiously in 1953. They believe there is no reason for businesses to suffer if this advice is followed.

DEAD OR ALIVE?

This is written in reply to recent Voice statement about Hitler.

When the "war crime trials" were being held with Goering and Hess the U.S.A. was the only nation Christian enough to send a Minister of the Gospel to be with the condemned German leaders at their ordeal. The Lutheran Church of this city had this man address a group here and when he was asked, "Is Hitler alive?" he replied:

"I know no more than you, but the man who saw the body of 'Hitler' carried from the bunker said the face was covered. The Russians measured the body and said it fell short of the published measurements of Hitler. The Russians and the Germans say he is alive. The Governments of England and the U.S.A. officially claim him to be dead."

Senate Shows Exceptional Zest, Snatches Initiative From Commons

(By A. R. Sykes, writing in the Ottawa Journal)

While the customarily active House of Commons has slowed down to a walk and is transacting virtually no business this week, the Senate has snatched the legislative initiative of Parliament and is going ahead with the usual speed of mid-session.

Business of the Commons is confined to the Throne Speech debate, and the long list of speakers bids fair to stretch into next week. While Commons make telling points in 40-minute speeches with an eye to the forthcoming election, Senators are getting down to brass tacks in committee, settling divorces, discussing health and whipping bills into shape for passage.

By mid-week so active was the Upper House on its lawful occasions that Harvey Armstrong, Chief Clerk of Committees of the Senate, was obliged to leave his office and sit in as a committee clerk. All other members of the Senate committee staff were busily engaged on other committee work.

In contrast to their eager-beaver opposite numbers on the Senate side, the committee staff of the House of Commons are living like gentlemen, having morning and afternoon coffee regularly and leisurely, and wondering when the Commons will get set to call on their services.

Not a word is heard on Parliament Hill these days on the favorite topic of Senate Reform. What with delving into divorces, holding sessions of the Banking and Commerce Committee and attacking a back-log of legislation, the Senators are not deemed a suitable target at this time for the reformers' arrows.

In the Commons a committee has been set up to select other committees, but as yet this master-committee has not made public its report. There is also Prime Minister St. Laurent's resolution providing for the reconstituting of the Defence Expenditures Committee, but this resolution has been allowed to stand and may well do so until Mr. St. Laurent's return from London.

Commoners have a valid defence of prolonging the full-dress Throne Speech debate and leaving legislative business to a later date. They have an election on their minds, and it is only in these "big" debates that every back-bencher has a chance to say a few well-chosen words for his constituency and its needs. Moreover, it is always sound policy for the local member to get on the record and then send a few hundred or a few thousand copies of the printed Hansard back to his riding for distribution.

As for Senators, they are not very greatly concerned over a general Federal election. Appointed for life, they keep their seats regardless of what party may be elected to power or what new Government may be formed.

Mountie Tells Of Placing Bets

EDMONTON (BUP) — Const. Ray Lavalley of the RCMP was the only witness to appear on the witness stand in Monday afternoon's session of the preliminary hearing of nine Edmonton men charged with book-making.

Lavalley told of the bets he placed with three of the alleged bookies and identified "scratch sheets" given to him by some of the men at the time he placed the bets. He said he also obtained possession of several scratch sheet caches in garbage cans at or near the suspected bookie establishments.

He testified the mimeographed

"scratch sheets" were printed at the bookie headquarters and distributed to other suspected establishments in the city in a shopping bag.

At each of the three book-making establishments he visited during his undercover work for the RCMP he saw persons studying scratch sheets, and turning over money to the accused persons. The persons placing the money, he said, indicated the number of a horse listed on the sheets.

Lavalley's assignment, his first major task since joining the Edmonton detachment of the RCMP, was climaxed late in November by a large-scale police raid on all suspected bookie joints in Edmonton.

you.

Son—I'll try hard, dad. But you know how those things leak out.

Success

"I suppose it was hard to lose your daughter," said the friend the day after the wedding.

"Well," it did seem hard for a while," said the father, "but she landed the fellow finally."

Nice Touch

Wife—You know, Wilbur, I

"Oh, miss," came a tearful feminine voice, "can I have my ten cents back? Albert won't speak to me."

Which?

The busy film magnate asked his secretary where his pencil was.

"It's behind your ear," she replied.

"Come, come," snapped the big shot. "I'm a busy man, which ear?"

The Proper Spirit

Parishioner: "Ah, Dr. Grimes!
How did you like those brandied peaches we sent?"

Rector: "My dear Mrs. Vesper, they were indeed delicious; but what we appreciated especially was the spirit in which they were given."

 HEAD OFFICE - CALGARY

LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa,
 I am a girl of seventeen and a senior in High School. I have been dating a young man who is about twelve years older than I am.
 Mother likes him all right but she says that a girl of my age cannot go to school and study and date a man that much older than she is.
 So what must I do? I like this person very much.

MARY.

Answer:

I think it is a better plan for school girls to go with boys nearer their own ages rather than someone so much older. An older man, who goes with girls so much younger than he, is either serious enough to be thinking of marriage or is up to no good, as a usual thing.

I agree with your mother that it will be hard for you to study while you go steady with a man who is almost thirty years of age.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa,

I am a girl in High School and have a boy friend about my same age. He says he is crazy about me but he doesn't act like it. He always wants to go out with me but he doesn't stay with me if I won't go. He goes somewhere else.

Do you think he really cares for me or is he trying to make a monkey out of me?

LONESOME.

Answer:

A boy who always wants to take a girl off somewhere and does not care to be seen in her company is, in your own words, evidently trying to make a monkey out of you.

I wonder if you are behaving yourself properly when you are out with him alone. Some girls are so eager for a little attention that they let boys take liberties with them for a little cheap popularity.

If that is why your friend is dating you, you will save yourself a lot of heartache and embarrassment later on by ending this affair right now.

LOUISA.

New Pontiacs Show

and steadier ride, is offered on both Chieftain Series. In addition to levelling out the roughest roads, Pontiac's new front end suspension greatly improves steering and handling on curves and corners—a feature to be appreciated by those who do considerable driving in cities or over winding roads. Rear springing on the new Pontiacs has also been improved.

In the new Pontiacs, there are many other appearance changes which begin at the front bumper and extend the length of the car. The new bumper styling gives an impression of massive strength. There is a completely re-designed, more massive radiator grille the elements of which carry out the styling theme of the car.

In this assembly the traditional Pontiac Indian head medallion is held midway between the symmetrical centre grille blades on a chrome bridge. These grille blades encircle the parking lamps which have also been re-designed. The headlamps are encased in more massive recessed chrome doors and are mounted on an improved flange which imparts richness and size to the front end.

Pontiac's power steering, available at extra cost on models with automatic transmission, operates hydraulically as a booster mechanism and goes into operation at the turn of the steering wheel when the car engine is running. It has the advantage of making steering practically effortless in cornering at low speeds, parking, and similar situation where considerable effort is required normally. Furthermore, resistance to road shock is an inherent feature of the hydraulic control.

Greater driving comfort results from the fact that occasional severe road shock is absorbed in the hydraulic gear. Driving "feel" is retained by resistance built into the system, and practically effortless steering is had with positive control under all driving conditions. In negotiating turns or curves at other than low speed, release of the steering wheel permits the front wheels to return to normal centre position without driver effort.

For 1953, the six-cylinder engine has been made more powerful. This engine, teamed with synchromesh transmission, has been stepped up to 115 horsepower at 3800 R.P.M., with a new compression ratio of 7.0 to 1. When used with automatic transmission, the horsepower is increased to 118 at 3800 R.P.M. and has a compression ratio of 7.7 to 1. This increase has been accomplished by the use of duplex carburetion with new intake manifold, new camshaft, more compact combustion chambers, and other detailed changes.

Another very definite improvement immediately apparent to the driver is the use of ignition key starting, which makes starting the car a simple, one hand operation. When the ignition key is inserted, a clockwise turn of the lock cylinder activates the starter switch, at the same time completing the ignition circuit. After the engine has started the operator need only release the key and a spring automatically returns the lock cylinder to the ignition "on" position.

Improved front door hinges comprise an entirely new design which add approximately 2½ ins. to the useable door opening. With this hinging arrangement the forward edge of the door swings out from, rather than into, the front fender.

This type of door hinge permits use of compression type weather stripping around the complete perimeters of the opening, giving a more positive sealing since the door edge closes directly over the weather stripping.

Wed At Beiseker; To Live At Calgary

BEISEKER — A very pretty wedding took place in St. Mary's Church here on December 29, 1952, at 10:00 a.m., when Rev. Father Tennant united in marriage Bernice Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Verhaest, and Leonard Stephen, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Schmaltz, al of Beiseker.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a ballerina length dress of chantilly lace over taffeta. Her waist-length veil of illusion net and lace, was held in place with a bonnet style headpiece. She carried a white prayer book on which rested a mauve orchid and yellow baby mums and from it fell long white streamers.

Miss Joyce Verhaest, as maid-of-honor, was dressed in deep rose lace over taffeta. The skirt was ballerina length also. Miss Gwen Verhaest as bridesmaid, wore a teal-blue nylon net over taffeta with a lace bolero. They both wore bonnet-type hats and carried bouquets of yellow mums.

Attending the groom were his two brothers, Clarence and Norman Schmaltz and the ushers were Stanley Schmaltz and Raymond Schwartzberger. Soloist was Miss Isabelle Kennedy.

A reception for 150 guests was held later in the Beiseker Memorial Hall. Mr. L. L. Schmaltz was master of ceremonies. The toast to the bride was given by Mr. Donald Kennedy. Several musical selections were given on accordions by Jackie Verhaest and Miss Thorsen, who are cousins of the bride.

The bride and groom spent their honeymoon in eastern Canada. For travelling, the bride wore a navy blue knitted suit topped with a muskrat coat and with it wore blue and yellow accessories. On their return they will reside in Calgary.

Keoma News Briefs

A good crowd turned out for the annual New Year's dance held in Keoma the first of January.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Sryko, from Edmonton, were holiday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Dingwall.

Women's Association Holds Meet

BEISEKER — The Women's Association of Zion United Church held a meeting in the church basement Tuesday evening, January 6. Mrs. Leo Haase, president-elect, conducted the meeting. After worship service a successful business meeting was held. A most enjoyable lunch was served by the hostess. All of those present expressed their appreciation for the wonderful job the volunteer workers are doing in renovating the basement of the church into a more comfortable and convenient place for Sunday School classes and WA meetings.

Prince Edward Island was the only province listing no boot-blacks in the 1951 census.
